Robert W. McChesney & John Nichols

The Death and Life of American Journalism

Two respected media authorities, McChesney, a radio host of Media Matters, and Nichols, the Nation's Washington, D.C., correspondent, spell out the rapid decline of and possible financial solutions for American journalism in their new book.

Wednesday, Feb 3 @ 7:00 pm

Reading/Signing

Michael J. Foy

The Kennedy Effect

President John F. Kennedy's counterpart from an alternate reality visits Earth, his stated mission: to observe our timeline, including the assassination of our president. But then his own dark fate is revealed, and he goes on the run.

Monday, Feb 8 @ 7:00pm

Discussion/Signing

Kevin O'Hara

A Lucky Irish Lad

O'Hara recreates his boyhood with these wonderful stories of growing up in Massachusetts in the 1950s and 60s as one of eight children. His parents, born in Ireland, came to this country for their children's sake. His family struggled against grinding poverty but they never gave up and never lost their faith that God had a plan for them.

First Contact, or, It's Later Than You Think

An alien invasion turns the United States, if not the world, upside down in this smart, witty romp—but not in the ways that extraterrestrial enthusiasts might expect. Ralph Bailey is working as a sandwich-fetching attaché to an inept president who assigns him to act as a liaison to the recently arrived aliens.

Monday, Feb 22 @ 7:00 pm

New Pathways for Aging

Getting older can be a downer. Not for this group, members of the Harvard Institute of Learning in Retirement (HILR). New Pathways for Aging is a collection of personal stories, interspersed with poems and theoretical insights, about their lives. Twenty writers look back on their lives and tell stories of loss and hope. The book is a testimony to the various routes thoughtful people have followed as they tackle retirement, loss, illness and relocation with resilience, courage, creativity and hope.
