Lone Frank

Mindfield: How Brain Science Is Changing Our World. The realization that the fundamental building blocks of our world consist of brains rather than nations, electrons or even DNA is ushering in a "neurocentric" revolution that will change how we think about everything from morality to stock markets, from gods to ourselves.

Mystery at Marian Manor, The Adventures of Nora Brady, Student Nurse

What kind of person would dream of harming the elderly? How could such a thing ever happen in a place as nice as Marian Manor? These are the thoughts that plague Nora Brady, the young student nurse assigned to the lovely nursing home in Jacobsport, a small coastal town in northern California. When cherished belongings of the residents begin disappearing and several residents die unexpectedly, Nora is forced to act. While carefully observing those around her, she looks for clues, follows her hunches and plays detective as well as student nurse.
